Chicago newspapers reported that in testimony before the McClellan Committee on June 30, 1958, it was alleged that JAMES EMERY was the leader of the Mafia in this area prior to his death in 1957.

I thought the Bureau might be interested in knowing what is contained in Chicago files on EMERY and a summary thereof is enclosed herewith.

1943, SA [redacted] contacted [redacted] of

On September 22, 1943, SA [redacted] obtained the Selective Service file of AMARATI from Local Draft Board No. 13, Flossmor. Said file revealed that his correct name was VINCENZO AMMERATO, alias JIMMY EMERY; that he was residing at 2606 Chicago Road, South Chicago Heights, Illinois, that he was born November 2, 1892, Cosenzo, Italy; that he was self employed--owned seven race horses--claiming his occupation to be "race horse owner and trainer" for the past twelve years. VINCENZO AMMERATO was described as:

Also in the files of Local Draft Board No. 13, Flossmor, was a file on AMMERATO's son RALPH AMMERATO, alias RALPH EMERY. RALPH EMERY's Selective Service file indicated that he lived at the same address as his father, but was at that time living at 2321 Colosseum Street, New Orleans, Louisiana, as of July 22, 1943. RALPH EMERY's occupation was given as that of bookmaker on horses at 122 South Clark Street, Chicago, for the past six years. He was classified as 4-F, remediable, and his file indicated that he held Social Security Number 350-01-8375. His file also indicated that he was formerly employed by the Owl Club, Plumber Street, Calumet City. RALPH EMERY was described as follows:

Memo, SAC Chicago dated Joliet, Illinois, October 1, 1944 from SA [redacted] regarding "Crime Survey, Joliet Resident Agency Information Concerning" reflects in part the following:

"It has been determined that at the present time there are no houses of prostitution, no slot machines and no gambling or bookie joints operating in the city of Chicago Heights. However there exists in Chicago Heights a so called syndicate which formerly controlled the operation of all these activities in and around Chicago Heights. As previously indicated this organization is attempting to gain control in Calumet City to replace their activities that formerly took place in and around Chicago Heights. This syndicate was formerly controlled by one SAM COSTELLO of Chicago Heights. However about 6 years ago, SAM COSTELLO was murdered. Immediately after his death, one JIMMY EMERY took over as head. EMERY, whose real name is VINCENZO AMMERATO, is alleged to have formerly been a pimp and to have controlled several houses and then worked into the gambling racket before taking over control of the whole syndicate. "I dont know whether youd be particularly interested in this nor how much truth there is to it but a friend of mine [redacted] in one of the rough dives out in Calumet City insists to me that JIMMY EMERY of Chicago Heights (his right name is EMERITUS; hes a dago) is the current AL CAPONE in these parts. This guy (in whom I havent much confidence) says EMERY is a real behind the scenes big shot and can give orders even to TONY ACCARDO and the rest of the mobsters in Chicago. You probably have heard of or about him. He seems now to have acquired a lot of wealth at least; has a string of horses running on the tracks, etc. I checked this last with our horse expert, [redacted] and he knew about him and his horses, said he can get a list of them if desired. My informant gave me the information in connection with the [redacted] kidnaping. He suspected this Chicago Heights mob headed by EMERY had [redacted]. Said four of EMERY's henchmen - two known [redacted] and two others, who had hung around Calumet City persistently, had disappeared from there on the Saturday that [redacted] was kidnaped and didnt show up again for a number of days - at least until [redacted] was released. He says that the mob (including the Chicago end) have the gambling privileges (craps etc) slot machines, furnished of girls and booze privileges, divided up for Calumet City and that its all directed by EMERY; that the dive owners there all kick in weekly to a pot, making up about $10,000 for protection from the highway, state and other police and some federal men. If EMERITUS is not a gang boos now he has been in the past. In a piece on Chicago Heights published in the Tribune, April 26, 1936 and written by LLOYD WENDT (hes one of those kids that would get something if it fell on him;) there is the following paragraph:

'JIMMY EMERY (EMERITUS) took over Chicago Heights for CAPONE. Two of the largest handbooks outside of Chicago operated within two blocks of the city hall. On August 15, 1946, SA MARK M. MC SHURLEY observed the automobile of JAMES EMERY, 1946 Illinois license 1507-507 parked at the rear of the Owl Club in Calumet City, Illinois. The automobile registration for the car was checked and showed that it was a 1946 Cadillac Sedan, Engine #5400646. The address of JAMES EMERY was given as 2606 South Chicago Heights, Illinois. JIM EMERY, alias VINCENZO AMMERATTI, a racing-stable owner suspected of being the Number One CAPONE Syndicate representative at the tracks, has been barred from racing at Sportman's Park.

The action was a result of the exposure of EMERY's criminal connections by the Daily News.

[redacted] said he was informed EMERY will take his stable south.

b6
b7C

At Keeneland Park in Lexington, Ky., which is now racing, [redacted] said no application had been received from EMERY to race his horses there.

EMERY is a prize example of underworld citizens slipping through the thin security regulations of Illinois racing. He has run a stable at local tracks for years and operated openly.

EMERY for two generations or more has been regarded as a big wheel in the CAPONE syndicate operation in the Chicago Heights area.

EMERY has had a large stable of horses running in his name, and owns the By-the-Way farm on W. 159th St., Thornton Township, near Washington Park race track.

EMERY's 2 year old, Twenty-Five, won the fourth race at Hawthorne last Thursday and returned $77. to win, $37.60 to place and $15.80 to show.

Among Police officials, there are two schools of thought about EMERY. Some believe that he has retired from the mob. Other point out that you don't retire from this outfit, and insist that EMERY still reports, directly to TONY ACCARDO, the present boss man of the syndicate.

EMERY has spent most of the years in his adopted country as the associate of alky cookers, gamblers, vice-mongers and gunmen. EMERY was indicted twice in 1929 in the so-called Chicago Heights conspiracy case, which charged more than 200 offenses to violate the law.

The first indictment was dismissed. EMERY pleaded guilty on the second indictment and was fined $500, which he paid in court.

During the 1921 cleanup drive in Chicago Heights, a "JIMMY EMERY" was indicted with a score or more racketeers. the charge after his name was "disorderly house."

In the early 1940's, after he had appeared as a horse owner, EMERY is noted in newspaper clippings as a lieutenant of the late FRANK NITTI, the gang leader who killed himself in 1943.

EMERY has lately come to the attention of Immigration and Naturalization officials of the Department of Justice, who have EMERY's background under investigation in their general search for undesirable aliens.

EMERY was naturalized in 1925, but his citizenship was cancelled by the Bureau of Naturalization in 1932, according to the records in the Federal Building.

His citizenship was restored March 19, 1946, by a U.S. District Court Order.

Investigators for the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau have long had a gimlet eye on EMERY, in the belief that he is the link between the CAPONE gangsters and racing.

But EMERY's record as a licensed owner in Illinois has only a few technical violations on it, including a $50 fine in 1951 for starting a horse not in proper condition.

After an odd looking race at Lincoln Fields in 1938, a steward reported that he "deplored the participation of JAMES EMERY in racing" in Illinois, but no formal charges were placed against the horse owner.

How does a man with a long background of gang connections become a veteran around the Illinois tracks, as EMERY has become?

[redacted] of the state racing board points out that this is an "inherited situation", and that the present board has begun action to clear hoodlum influence out of the $100 million per year sport over which the state board presides.

[redacted] of the racing board, points out that the licensing officials of the board issue some 5300 state license every year to owners, jockeys, trainers and grooms.

These licenses are renewable every year, and once granted they are not likely to be challenged later, unless the owner, trainer or jockey has violated some of the rules of racing.

The rules of the state racing board say that no license should be issued to any person, "who is connected with or associated with any person engaged in bookmaking, pool selling or other illegal enterprises."

Another rule bars persons convicted of a crime.

Still another rule is intended to bar anyone "who is engaged in any activity or practices which are undesirable or detrimental to the best interests of the public or the sport of horse racing."

A casual examination of EMERY's background would suggest that these rules were written specifically to keep characters like him out of the horse parks.

EMERY has a criminal conviction on his record, he has been and is associated with some of the notorious gamblers in Calumet City, Blue Island, and Chicago Heights, and even a racing steward has gone on record as saying that EMERY was no decoration to the sport.

But there is nothing in the records of the state racing board to indicate that anyone has ever done a double take on EMERY in his annual application for renewal of owner's license.

The 1954 application was approved in routine fashion last April 30. The licensing board members who signed EMERY's current license application

On EMERY's current application, he listed seven horses in his stables.

As of April, 1954, the EMERY stable included two 5 year-olds, "L FROO" and "ALHAPED", a 8 year old, "LINCOLN'S DAY", and four 2 year olds, "Don't Fail Me", "Argument", "Viruzza" and "TINLEY BOY".

Anonymous source furnished typewritten report dated October 22, 1954 and date stamped Chicago Office on October 26, 1954.

This report states, "The indication is that the syndicate operations at the race tracks are not a casual, offhand array of manipulations by individual hoodlums who happen to like horses, but are strictly business, controlled from the top."

"There are two arms--the stable area, dealing with the actual running of races, doping, attempts, to control trainers, owners, jockeys--anyone they can reach. The other branch is the grandstand area, handling finances. They work closely together.

The Chicago American, Diamond Final Edition, dated May 31, 1955, page 19, column 3 contained an article captioned "CAPONE Aid Denied Stalls At Balmoral."

Five horses from the stable of JAMES EMERY, former AL CAPONE aid, have been refused stall space at Balmoral Jockey Club.

Officials of the club, formerly Lincoln Fields, informed EMERY no stall space was immediately available.

In the group which accompanied the horses was said to be [redacted] for EMERY's horses, EMERY later protested to club officials. He was told they would hold a meeting tomorrow to decide on his application to race at Balmoral.

EMERY said he had been legitimately licensed by the Illinois Racing Board and has a right to race his horses anywhere in the state.

Tomorrow's meeting was expected to pass on EMERY's application to race at Balmoral and possibly also might determine his future as an owner.

Club officials present will include [redacted]

Balmoral officials said that twice before the meet opened this year, EMERY had made application for stall space. He had been turned down both times because he did not yet have his 1955 license from the Illinois board.

EMERY could not be reached for comment. His friends said he plans, if necessary, to take his case through the courts. He feels he would not have been held a desirable citizen in the eyes of the Illinois Racing Board.

EMERY, said his friends, takes the view that a track has the right to bar anyone from attendance at the races on grounds of undesirability, but he believes that they cannot bar an owner duly licensed by state officials, the friends said. EMERY also is known as VINCENZO AMMERATTI. He is alleged formerly to have run bootlegging interests in the far Southwest Side of Chicago for CAPONE. He gave his address on his license application as 5101 W. 147th St., Tinley Park.

The Chicago Daily News, Blue Streak Edition, dated June 2, 1955, page 45, column 8 contained an article entitled "EMERY Denied Stall Space by Balmoral."

JAMES EMERY, onetime CAPONE associate was denied stall space for his string of five race horses Wednesday by Balmoral, racing at Washington Park. The Illinois Racing Board awarded EMERY an owner's license for this season last Saturday and an application for stall space followed.

EMERY threatened to go to court if refused stall space.

It is expected that EMERY, alias VINCENZO AMMIRATI, will be denied stall space at both Arlington and Washington as the same management runs all three associations.

The Balmoral decision to bar EMERY declared:

"Official notice that the Racing Board had approved an owner's license for EMERY, who had applied for stall space, was not received by Balmoral until May 28. Commitments for available stalls have been made. After due consideration, EMERY was not allotted stalls."

An old style of the 1920's has been revived--plushy funerals for hoodlums.

This was demonstrated Thursday as JAMES EMERY, 64, an old timer in syndicate affairs, was laid to rest.

AL CAPONE himself was virtually sneaked into the cemetery when he died in 1947. But EMERY, never very well known, got the full treatment. Men representing every field of hoodlum endeavor turned out for his wake and funeral.

Top syndicate brass reportedly turned out for the ELLERY funeral and held a smoky conference in an office of the chapel.

FRANK LA PORTE is an old time bootlegger restricting his activities to Calumet City, Indiana, and Chicago Heights, Illinois. Book making, prostitution, and bootlegging has been his forte.

LA PORTE was investigated with JAMES AGLIRATO, aka JAMES EMERY, deceased, in connection with Charles "LUCKY" LUCIANO activities in the narcotic traffic.
